Bessie Bonehill, who has just returned to this country, and who is shortly to star, began a couple of weeks' engagement at Tony Pastor's last night. She was accorded a very warm welcome, and did some clever character work in her usual style. Pastor's programme was good throughout. It included Nellie!. Estrange, the serio-comic; Ward and Vokes, Seeley and West, Will H. Fox in his "creation" called "Paddewhiskle; the Johnson trio, the Fremonts, Beliac and Aouda, Frank Kiley, who did some very lively dancing, and Mile. Morello, with her trained spaniels.

IMPERIAL MUSIC HALL.

A grand re-opening of the Imperial Music Hall was promised for last night, and a grand re-opening there was. The house scintillated in its new white and gilt dress, and the performance was capital, enlisting the services of a number of new people, of whom we have heard before. Mile, Allee Delimore did a very charming serpentine dance, with new electrical effects, and made a hit. Then there were Marie Collins, who sang amusingly; Clssy Lind, Kitty Clayton, the elever Avolos, the Pacchi brothers, Charles Compton, Harry Le Clair, John W. Alyers, the Kokins, the Pattersons, Sherman and Morrissey and others, CASINO ROOF GARDEN.

CASINO ROOF GARDEN.

Sig. Borelli, who is said to be a Count, aithough he modestly alludes to himself as signor, made his first appearance in this country last night at the Casino Roof Garden. His performance was exceedingly spirited, for he played the plane with his hands and feet, and sang bilthely. Nobody could possibly ask more of him. Other entertainers were the Dixon brothers, Ames, the "flexible Adonis;" Ethel Irving, the comely sister of Eunice Vance; Miss Vance, herself; De Bessell, the clay modeller, and the freegory banjo trio. The attendance was large.

KOSTER & BIAL'S. KOSTER & BIAL'S.

Guibal and Greville, the mind readers, who have mystified audiences at the Eden Musee and the Casino, turned their attention to the jovisl minds at Koater & Blal's Concert Hall last night, and were just as successful. A new bijou edition of Offenbuch's "Orpheus" was sung for the first time, and, though Offenbach might not have recognized his work, the audience was eminently satisfied. The variety programme included Dufour and Hartley, the Borani brothers, Lottic Collard, the soubrette, and the indefatigable boxing kangaroo.

AMERICAN THEATRE.

The variety performance on the roof of the American Theatre last night was unite as "up to date" as the sporting drama in the theatre itself. It was very enjoyable. Among the artists were Conroy and Fox, the Frantz family, who have made something of a sensation; Georgie Parker, whose vivacity has not been diminished by the climate of London; Lady Mansel, James B. Radcliffe, Lillie Landon, Mile, Aivira, the two Belfry sisters, Mile, Anna and the Kawa-Kamis. "The Prodigal Daughter" had a large audience, for it was nice theatre weather.

Dot Sonwell, "restored to perfect health," handled snakes in the curlo halls, and was looked upon with emphasized curlosity, for she was bitten by a rattlemake not long ago. The pretty phosphorescent fountain was again seen.

The Imperial Novelty Company gave hourly vaudeville performances at Huber's Fourteenth Street Museum yesterday. Those who appeared were Prince Satsuma. Sam Burt, Emily Waite, the Perkins brothers and Harry Keller. In the curio halls was a waxen figure of that eminent individual known as Steve Brodle "as he will appear as a concert-hall proprietor in Thomas Davis's melodrama "On the Bowery." The performing monkeys; Orsona, the man with the iron hair, and Prof Kerslake's pig circus were other attractions.

Some of the scenes in "The New South" are very interesting, and the theme touched upon—to wit, the leasing of a Georgia convict by his sweetheart—has the flavor of novelty.
